

By Cassandra Anderson
July 17, 2012

In June 2012 Chace Topperwein, an adorable 3 year-old boy from New Zealand, lost his battle with a rare and aggressive form of cancer. Chace was accidentally given Merck's Gardasil HPV vaccine that is intended to prevent cervical cancer from genital wart infection, when he was 6 weeks old. A nurse mistakenly used the wrong syringe filled with Gardasil when she had meant to give the baby a meningitis vaccine.

Chace was diagnosed with myeloid leukemia at age 2 and died just last month. His devastated parents suspected that the Gardasil vaccine was to blame for his illness.

Merck does not list leukemia as a possible side effect of the Gardasil vaccine. However, Merck has failed to test its vaccine for links to cancer.

Carcinogenicity

Carcinogenicity is the ability or tendency to produce cancer.

Merck admits in their Prescribing Information for Gardasil that they perform zero tests for carcinogenicity.

In addition, Merck's clinical studies were skewed because they compared Gardasil against an aluminum adjuvant additive, instead of a plain water and saline/salt placebo. Merck's Prescribing Information (section 13) document shows that they ran 7 safety studies on the vaccine; 5 of those tests compared Gardasil results against an aluminum vaccine additive (Amorphous Aluminum Hydroxyphosphate Sulfate or AAH) instead of a harmless saline placebo.

In other words, Gardasil was deemed "safe" when it was compared to an aluminum additive that is neuro-toxic. The true risks of the vaccine are unknown because both substances showed adverse reactions.

The remaining 2 studies included an impure saline solution with other additives as the placebo while the other one had no placebo control group.

Genotoxicity

Genotoxicity is the ability to damage DNA which can then cause cancer or other mutations.

Merck admits in their literature that they skip testing for genotoxic mutations. This is odd because Gardasil is a recombinant vaccine, which means that it is genetically engineered (GE) in a lab. GE materials embedded into host cells are notorious for producing unintended mutations.

The vaccine industry claims that the Gardasil recombinant vaccine uses isolated proteins that don't contain genetic material from the virus.

However, SaneVax tested Gardasil samples from around the world in 2011 and all of the samples were contaminated with recombinant HPV virus and residue, even though it was supposed to have been purified to remove the DNA. Both the virus and residue were found firmly attached to the aluminum additive.

This is important because it means that either mutations ARE occurring or Merck is producing a contaminated product. Either way, the impact of the contamination on humans is unknown, which is very disturbing.

Gardasil Does Increase Cancer Risk

An FDA document from May 2006 shows that girls and women previously exposed to the HPV viruses that are the same as the ones contained in the Gardasil vaccine increase their risk of developing precancerous lesions by 44.6% if they take the Gardasil vaccine. Merck fails to warn about this risk.

Gardasil Deaths

In addition to causing death, thousands have reported severe side effects from Gardasil that include paralysis, Guilliane-Barre Syndrome, seizures, blindness, and more .

No one knows the exact number of deaths and serious side effects caused by the Gardasil vaccine because the data is ignored, hidden, unreported or written off as a coincidence. The reported Gardasil-linked death toll in the US appears to be 75 people.

This figure includes Judicial Watch's discovery of 26 unreported deaths linked to the vaccine. Judicial Watch had to resort to filing a Freedom of Information Act request in 2011 to get this information from the FDA.

Gardasil Profits

The medical establishment's bottom line is greed and drug companies receive heavy profits from vaccines. Merck raked in over $48 billion in sales in 2011; Gardasil sales alone were $1.2 billion worldwide, a 22% increase from 2010.

The FDA is complicit with the pharmaceutical industry in neglecting safety because the FDA receives as much as one third of their funding from " user fees ", with a majority being paid by big drug companies. Most user fees are collected for pre-market drug trials. In other words, FDA paychecks are underwritten to great degree by the drug companies that the FDA is supposed to be policing.

Merck's Cancer Causing Vaccines

According to a video featuring Dr. Maurice Hilleman, Merck has a history of pushing dangerous cancer-causing vaccines.

Read the transcript here .